THE GREAT TREE OF THE BANYANS

- 1 The Great Tree of the Banyans
- 2 A pagoda of the idol Mamamra, on one side of which Devotees are marked on the forehead with vermilion; on the other side a Brahman takes their free-will offerings of rice &c
- 3 A pagoda of Ram
- 4 Another pagoda dedicated to Ram
- 5 A pagoda of retirement for the penitential Fakirs
- 6 A cavern or close ditch impervious to the least gleam of day, except what passes through a little hole for that purpose, resorted to by 1 Fakir several times in the year
- 7 A Fakir sleeping upon a cord
- 8 Fakirs that remain all their lives in the same attitude, living by the charity of female Devotees
- 9 Several Fakirs consulted and invoked as Saints, by the women
- 10 Various postures that some Fakirs are in several hours a day
- 11 A Brahman with his nose and mouth muffled up, lest he should swallow the smallest insect in drawing his breath; he likewise sweeps the ground before him as he walks lest he should tread upon any worm or insect
- 12 Fakirs warning themselves
- 13 A Fakir feeding animals out of pure charity
